Policy on Pesticide use:

At The Watershed Nursery are committed to providing dependable service and quality site-specific gene-stock for Northern and Central California revegetation project. The measure of our success extends beyond the high quality material that leaves the nursery to the establishment of diverse, healthy, functioning ecosystems.

The Watershed Nursery's pesticide policy is to use an Integrated Pest Management (IPM) program. It is a common sense method for pest control. It relies on pest prevention, monitoring for pest problems, and control methods like traps and bait to eliminate or drastically reduce pesticide any use. No neonicotinoids have ever been used on or nursery plants or anywhere else in the nursery and we commit to not ever using neonicotinoids in the future.
